

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

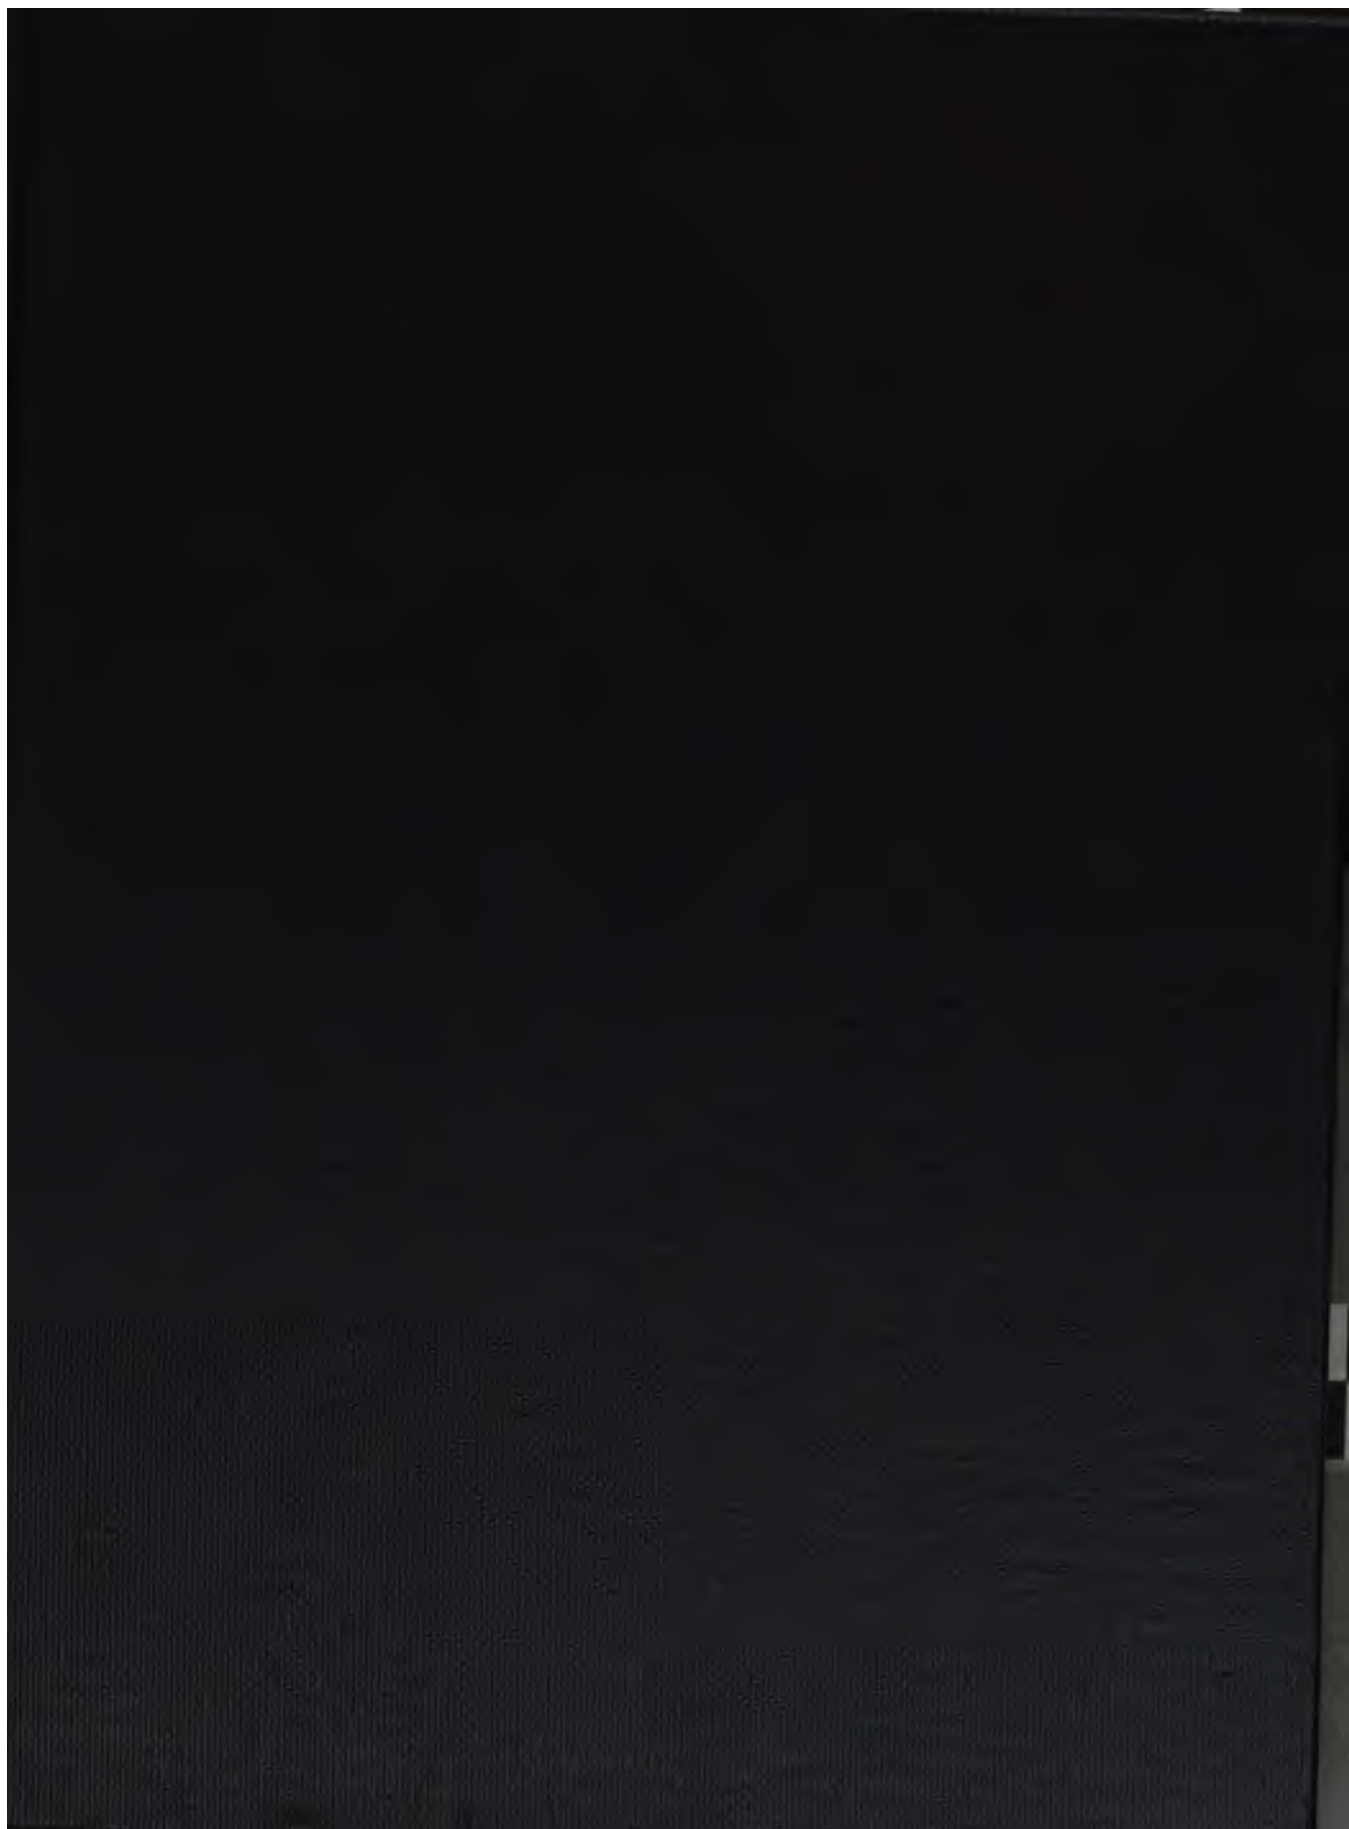

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE.

The epitaphs contained in this volume were copied from stones in the Old Burying-ground in the rear of the Unitarian Church in Lexington and in the Robbins Cemetery in the East Village, and embrace all those on stones now visible above the ground. Seven hundred and sixteen epitaphs are here given. With all the quaintness of diction, the peculiarities of spelling, of punctuation and type, they are accurate transcripts from the stones, and may be considered as correct biographical records as those of the family Bibles of the inhabitants of this community.

As the earliest settlements in the town are believed to have been made about the year 1638, it is fair to conclude that many burials were made on the farms and elsewhere about the town before the establishment of the Old Burying-ground. No record of such burials, however, is in existence.

The northwest and earliest part of the Old Burying-ground was established in 1692, by a gift from John Munroe, a son of the immigrant and himself the father of ten children by his wife Hannah. Three stones, marked 1690, are the oldest found. In 1747 the ground was enlarged by the purchase of land from William Munroe (1701-1783), "the blacksmith." The record goes that he took cold while haying in his meadow and was the first laid in this part of the grounds. In 1811 a plot of land was bought to the eastward of the present entrance to the cemetery, and on this four tombs were built in that year. Still later an additional lot of land was bought to the north of the four tombs, extending to the northeast corner of the present ground. It is called the Proprietors' Lot. In 1819 still other land was set aside by the Robbins and Simonds families at the left of the entrance. The private burying-ground of the Robbins family in the East Village was established by Mr. Stephen Robbins (1758-1847), and contains the bodies of at least a hundred members of his family and others.

PREFACE.

It should also be remembered that eight minutemen of the town are buried near the Battle Monument on the Common. The burials here referred to, with those in the new cemetery, include all those known within the limits of the town.

In the fall of 1903 a paper was read by the compiler of this book before the Lexington Historical Society describing these grounds quite fully. It has recently been printed and is to be found in the third volume of the Proceedings of the Society.

Annexed to this book are lithographic plans after drawings from surveys made by Mr. Eli M. Robbins, who allows their use. The small figures given with each epitaph refer to these plans and serve to identify all the stones now visible. Valuable assistance in copying the epitaphs has been given by Miss Sarah Eddy Holmes of Lexington.

In connection with the epitaphs, footnotes have been added, giving the line of ancestry and some biographical notes for the purpose of identification.

Here lies
the body of his Excellency
WILLIAM EUSTIS
who was born at Cambridge,
June 10th 1753,
and died in Boston,
February 6th 1825

He served his country as a surgeon through the revolutionary war. In her political affairs he subsequently took an active lead :
he successively filled the distinguished places of Secretary of War of the United States,
Envoy extraordinary and Minister plenipotentiary
at the Court of the Netherlands, Representative to the National Congress,
and Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts

To the honored and beloved memory of a Revolutionary Patriot
A servant of his country in its highest trusts,
A friend to his country in its darkest hours,
An eloquent orator, a practical statesman,
A dutiful son, an affectionate husband,
this monument is erected by his mourning widow
CAROLINE LANGDON EUSTIS.
He hastened to his country's service on the eventful morning of the 19th of April 1775,
And within the precincts hallowed by blood,
which was shed on that day,
After an honorable and useful life,
he rests in peace and hope comformably to his last wish by his mother's side.

SACRED

To the Memory of Deacon Jonas Stone:
who departed this Life
Oct^r. y^e 29th. 1790;
In the 80th year of his age.

He worthily sustained the office of a Deacon in the Church of Christ in Lexington for [vacant] years: and was a Representative for the Town for several years:
He was a very useful member of y^e society to which he did belong, and was much esteemed by his respectable Acquaintance,
for his Piety, charity, Benevolence and Liberality; and we trust
having finished his course and kept the faith, has now entered into the joy of his Lord.
